

Why is knowledge power?

How can the explanation of actual phenomena enable humans to produce new phenomena? In my talk, I want to explore the hypothesis according to which knowledge can be a power only if nature has a definite metaphysical structure : natural objects should have dispositional properties, be mechanically articulated and mereologically structured.

Raphael Kunstler.